

Next Madeleine Foundation Conference Saturday 19 June and Sunday 20 June

Our regional meetings are for those who are sceptical about the claim that Madeleine McCann was abducted and who wish to discuss, amongst like-minded people, what really happened to Madeleine McCann.

Those who have come to our previous four conferences have all found them to be informative and friendly events which have enabled them to get greater understanding of this issues involved. One person who attended one of our conferences for the first time, in February, wrote up an article about her experiences on the 'Little Morsals' blog, here is the link:

Here are some details about our next regional conference:

Venue: In the vicinity of Macclesfield, not far from the M6. It is reasonably accessible by public transport. We are sorry we can't give the exact location in advance, but there are those who have expressed an intention to disrupt our previous conferences and we need to take steps to keep them away.

Programme: The format will be similar to previous events, namely:
SATURDAY: FREE Buffet lunch from 12noon to 2pm.

2pm - Introductions, followed by...

Presentations and discussions.

At the moment we have the following offers for presentations:

- A Madeleine Foundation supporter to speak on: DNA in relation to this case, touching on things like DZ/fraternal twinning by means of artificial reproduction/IVF and the Netherlands Genetic Initiative
- A Madeleine Foundation supporter to speak on 'The rise and rise of Jim Gamble, the Chief Executive of CEOP: why?'
- Tony Bennett to speak on the matter of possible re-investigations into Madeleine's disappearance and the role of the Home Office

- Sharon Lawrence will speak on methods of giving practical support to Goncalo Amaral.

Saturday evening - social event for those staying overnight.

SUNDAY: Discussions will continue at the home of a Madeleine Foundation supporter.

Enquiries and Registration: You will need to pre-register for the conference. We will tell you the exact venue a few days before the conference, including details of public transport and of local accommodation for those staying overnight.
